I, Kerry Jackson, a donor and viewer of WMFE, file these comments on April 27, 2011, about the sale of WMFE-TV to Daystar.

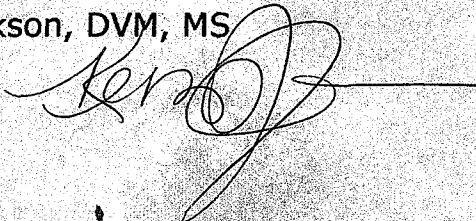

WMFE is the sole PBS station in the Orlando market, A population of over 2 million, and provides the most PBS content of any of the Central Florida stations. I almost exclusively watch WMFE, and the objective Newshour, science and nature programs, and in depth reports and history. WMFE is the only station with a full day of classroom style educational programming, in addition to preschool educational programs.

The religion station, Daystar, will join an already crowded market of religious programming in Orlando. The religion stations and nine substations WTGL, WHLV, and WACX overserve this market. The Texas based Daystar will not act in the public interest of Orlando. Why is is the only purchaser considered by the WMFE board, I can only speculate. The WMFE annual report, published on 2/03/2011 indicates no funding problems, with an income of $6,307,487 and expenses of $6,130,162. Either this report is fraudulent, or the claim for financial difficulties at WMFE is fraudulent.

Currently, Orlando has the second largest University in the United States, the University of Central Florida. This local educational resource should have been considered as a partner in our PBS station.
